SIG report: Alliance of Modern Languages, Area Studies and Linguistics Subject Associations UK (AMLUK)

Building on the recognition of an urgent need for all members of the Modern Languages community to engage with matters of advocacy and sustainability of the discipline, AMLUK have concentrated this year on preparing a '10-point plan' for individual and joint action. We hope to strengthen the cohesion of the discipline in this way, sharpen our messaging and focus our engagement.

First discussions at the AMLUK members' meeting in February have been consolidated through consultation with UCFL, the Languages Gateway and the BA, and a draft document has now been sent out to AMLUK members. This will be further discussed at the next AMLUK meeting in June, with a view to finalising it after the UCFL plenary meeting in July. It will be disseminated via Heads of Languages and subject associations in the next academic year.
